Dr. R. Raymond Green
Heber Hospital
Heber City, Utah

Dear Doctor Green: '

When Clark Bonner was in the office on March 19 at your appreciated suggestion, he presented clinical tinea capitis and tinea corporis. His scalp was not florescent under Wood's Light but his infection is probably due to organisms not florescent. Cultures were taken and will be reported later.

Clark was placed on Griseofulvin, 0.250 grams, t.i.d. His scalp will be shampooed with Betadine Shampoo at night followed by 3% Vioform Ointment which will also be applied to the glabrous areas.

With kindest regards, I am

Yours sincerely,

Wm. J. Morginson, M.D.

JOHN WESLEY WITT SR.

John Wesley Witt was born in McLeansboro, Hamilton County, Illinois, on February 10, 1829. He was the son of Robert and Dorcus Willis Witt, who became identified with the Mormon Church soon after it was organized. He was the second child of the family of five: Kizzie Ann B., John Wesley, Sarah Jane B., William B. and Mills, who died in infancy. His father died when he was but four years of age.

John Wesley was baptized a member of

THE WASATCH MILITIA

The early years of Wasatch County were years of wildest romance and adventure. The purpose of the first settlers to establish a homesite in a forboding area was memorable. In the main these early people were not farmers, but good farmers they became. They were not military men but soldiers they had to be. Days were times to be cautious and darkness was a fearsome thing. Every rock or tree or gully was a possible screen for a savage Red Man intent on plunder or murder.

By the spring of 1866 many settlers had joined the 1859-60 people and thriving settlements were established in fertile parts of the valley. If only the Indians had been less warlike the pioneers could have been very happy. Crops had been grown; contrary to first predictions. Stout hearts were determined that Heber Valley also should "blossom as the rose."

On May 1, 1866 several companies of fighting men were mustered into service by Mayor John W. Witt, who was commanding officer of the Wasatch Militia. The County was divided into six divisions with officers to command each section. John Hamilton and Sidney Epperson held the rank of Major. John Crook, David Van Wagoner and Charles H. Wilcken were Battalion Adjts.

As the summer of 1866 advanced more men joined the army while the families from the out-lying places moved into Heber for protection.
